

Dr. A.K. Rao, Professor- Operations Management, Centre for Organization Development, is a Mechanical Engineering graduate with Post-graduate qualification in Industrial Engineering and Management from Asian Institute of Technology, Bangkok, and Ph.D. from IIT, Bombay.

A qualified Management Trainer from University of Illinois and trained in Project Management tools and methodologies and Solution for Sales & critical Chain Project Management in Theory of Constraints.

His 26 years of experience included teaching, consulting and held senior positions in semiconductor industry. He worked as the Director, Executive Education at Indian School of Business, Hyderabad. Before joining ISB he was with HCL Technologies heading their training function. He was with Satyam Computer Services Limited as Principal Consultant in their Learning Center. He was in the learning domain for the past 12 years with institutions such as ASCI and TMTC. He served as President of the Pearl City Chapter of Project Management Institute, USA.

He contributed more than 25 publications both in Indian and International journals.

His areas of interest include in providing breakthrough solutions for operational excellence, specifically in Project Management and manufacturing/service industries. He conducts programme on Project and Contract Management, Integrated Scientific Project Management, Materials Management etc at COD.

-----**-----